Here's your tracker for the 1000 books you and your child read this year. Keep this tracker at home. Place a check mark in the box for each book completed. We will provide you with a monthly tracker chart once this one is full. Turn in your monthly tracker by the last day of each month so your child's teacher can enter the books read on her classroom chart. Remember – time on the task of reading counts as a book as you and your child read recipes, sight words, newspaper articles, grocery labels and circulars, etc.

Have fun with this.

Keep this tracker at home.

Summer 2022

Scott Kindergarten Families,

Thank you for registering your child in Kindergarten at Scott Elementary. We want them to be prepared to learn how to read when they get to kindergarten. Studies show that our children are experiencing a vocabulary gap. Imagine this: by the age of three, children from book rich homes, children whose parents have gone to college or have had some postsecondary schooling are likely to have heard words 30 million times more than those who don't have that advantage.

How do we fix that you ask?

Read to your children at least thirty minutes every day. Reading comes in all forms (labels, signs, recipes, etc.). Have them read pictures and tell the story to you before its read. Give them your time, play word games with them, turn on the captions to their favorite shows. Take the challenge to read to or have your child read 1000 books this year, so we can "mind the vocabulary gap", therefore please accept our gift to you to get your child literally started.

Once school begins, all kindergarten students will be enrolled in our online book library, MyOn. Students will have access to all kinds of titles electronically using MyOn. Books can be downloaded on to a mobile device and the program will even read the books for you. As a school, we track student completed books progress using MyOn and we hope you and your family will help read kindergarten to victory.

Also note that we have a little free library outside of the front office where you can always get/trade books besides those available in our school library.

Scan this code or watch this video to have this letter read to you and to see how MyOn and the Little Free Library work.

Yours in academic partnership,

Dana Roseman
